Looking for hosts for medical students

Wheatbelt Medical Student Immersion Program

TUESDAY 15 MARCH TO FRIDAY 18 MARCH 2022

Share what living in the Wheatbelt is like with future doctors

Two hundred medical students will be spending one week in the Wheatbelt in March 2022. During their stay, students will visit local farms, industry, general practices, hospitals and schools, and participate in community activities.

We need you to provide real-life experiences that will give students an understanding of what it is like to live in the Wheatbelt and perhaps inspire them to become rural doctors.

Students will visit the following towns:

The University of Notre Dame Australia students

Bruce Rock, Merredin, Narrogin, Southern Cross and Westonia.

Curtin University students

Cunderdin, Corrigin, Kellerberrin, Moora and Wongan Hills.

As a host, we ask you to provide accommodation and meals for two or more students; live no more than 30 minutes from town and be able to assist with transport to/from town; share what it is like to live in your town; and come along to a Thank You Dinner hosted in your town by the students.

Why host?

This is a life-changing experience for the students, with many having no previous exposure to rural life or the Wheatbelt.

By providing these rural immersion opportunities early in their degree, it has been proven that students are more likely to consider rural career opportunities.

Some students continue to keep in touch and visit their host families; some return to do seasonal work and placements. Others have inspired host family members to pursue tertiary studies in health and medicine.

Did you know?

Did you know that our most precious asset is water? Yilgarn is plagued by lack of surface or underground water. When gold was located during 1887 the early prospectors soon learnt their most precious possession was their water bag. They depended on rock holes and soaks that were prone to dry up. At Southern Cross a drilling programme located only salt water. Dams sunk in gullies and lakebeds had only limited success. The best watering holes were Sayers Tank and Kookooradine Tank.

When water ran out the Warden granted exemptions, allowing mine owners to go home until it rained, temporarily suspend working their lease without fear of forfeiture. It was this lack of surface or underground water which led to condensers being invented to turn salt water into fresh. The condensers worked like an overgrown kettle. Salt water from surrounding lakes was boiled with the steam trapped to drip out as drinking water. The surrounding lakes near town were dotted with condensers. The water position worsened following the discovery of Coolgardie and Kalgoorlie.

Southern Cross became the jumping off point to the new finds. In addition to hundreds of gold seekers, wagon horses needed water. The shortage was so critical, the Superintendent of Water Supplies visited the goldfields to see for himself. He authorised a concrete tank of two million gallons be constructed at Southern Cross. This became known as New Zealand Gully tank, and is still in existence.

The government saw it as their duty to supply water along the track, but once workers formed themselves into communities, they should look out for themselves. Southern Cross was told to assume responsibilities for its own water. By this stage railway construction had reached Southern Cross, adding to the woes with a huge railway gang needing water. The lowest point occurred during April 1894 when the town ran dry: 'The town is absolutely without water tonight. Neither hotel nor teams nor man could buy water at any price.'

This led to a plea for the railway contractor to cart in water by train, and the town was saved by water carted from Burracoppin. For the next 18 months the town relied on water being carted in by rail. To ensure its own supplies for steam engines, the railways constructed a dam at the foot of Canopus Street. This became known as Parsons Dam due to its proximity to the Anglican minister's residence.

The original dam has since been replaced by another owned by the Shire Council for watering the town oval. Water shortage during the mid 1890's was the prime reason for the typhoid epidemic which swept the town, the contagious disease aggravated by polluted water and lack of hygiene. The years 1900 and 1901 were particularly dry. However the railways also ran short and suspended water carting to concentrate on its own supplies. Southern Cross soon ran dry and the railways were forced to come to the rescue once more.

Frasers mine aggravated the problem by drawing water from the town dam for mine use. Frasers claimed if they could not have water they would shut down the mine and throw the town out of work. Water, and its availability, was the major talking point. It created a common bond. Conversation revolved around gold, water, and feed. The publican may hand over the whisky bottle but never the water jug, which he would dispense himself. Meanwhile the Coolgardie water scheme was under construction with the pipeline snaking eastwards. Its water would be the salvation of Southern Cross when it reached the town in September 1902. But that is another story.

Industry leading inoculant supplier

ALOSCA Technologies is an industry leader in Rhizobia inoculants for legumes supplied in a unique patented granule. It is the only inoculant that can be reliably used in dry sowing, top dressing or in contact with seed dressing or fertiliser that would otherwise be harmful to Rhizobia bacteria.

Ideal for summer or early seeding

ALOSCA granules provide flexibility like no other product. Legumes can be sown with ALOSCA granules in dry conditions and remain in the soil for months until being activated by the same seasonal rain that germinates the crop.

Don't just take our word for it.

Read what Nathan Garn from Wyalkatchem has to say. Nathan grows approximately 1,500ha of lupins annually.

"I'm switching back to ALOSCA granules this season. I tried another product last season but it was a nightmare handling and questionable how well it would work in tough dry conditions. ALOSCA granules are far easier to handle and I can better trust they work in all situations."

Benefits at a glance:

- Specifically developed for Australian conditions and soils
- Can be dry sown, simple to apply and can be easily blended with fertilisers, seeds or a third box
- Can be used with seed dressings that are typically harmful to inoculants
- Can be stored for months in a dry area
- No need for slurries
