Valuing where we live in Western Australia

Invitation to participate in a survey!

Where we live matters. But what is it about our homes and local areas that make them important? What aspects of our homes do we value most? What do sense of place and belonging mean to us in our daily lives? What would we miss most about our homes?

You are invited to share your thoughts on these important questions in a research survey being conducted by a team of researchers from The University of Western Australia (UWA School of Agriculture and Environment; School of Humanities; School of Psychological Sciences) and Edith Cowan University (School of Science).

The results of this survey will help us identify what people in rural and urban areas of WA value in their lives in relation to their homes and local areas. This work forms part of a larger research project investigating social losses from environmental and climatic changes and place-based strategies for desirable community resilience.

We would like to hear from people aged 18 or over who live in:

- Attadale
- Willagee
- Darlington
- Kelmscott
- Toodyay
- Northam
- Merredin
- Southern Cross

If you live in one of these areas and would like to participate in this survey, please do so by 15 July 2018 by visiting:

<https://goo.gl/zqKt4d>

If you prefer to be mailed a paper survey or would like to find out more, please contact:

Prof. Petra Tschakert (principal investigator)

Email: petra.tschakert@uwa.edu.au

All participants will enter a draw for a prize from the project!

Pioneers of Yilgarn

Stage 1.

Citizens who built this district between years
1887 and 1914

Mackey, Edmond: Came to Southern Cross in 1896 to work as accountant for Frasers mine. He left 2 years later to become part owner the Transvaal mine. He also part owned the Eclipse mine at Marvel Loch and held an interest in Hopes Hill mine. For a number of years he was a councilor on the Municipality, serving a term as mayor. He was also a member of Yilgarn Road Board. His civic involvement led to him being appointed a Justice of the Peace. A good sportsman in his day, he kept up his interests, his favorite being the Racing Club. During the Bullfinch boom he wrote mining articles for the Melbourne Argus. In 1916 he married local girl Anne Fairclough and moved to Perth. His business of consulting engineer saw him back in Southern Cross regularly. In 1934 he was appointed manager of Australian Mines and Secretariat Ltd, a branch of the Mines Dept and was a regular visitor to Southern Cross warden's court. He was well known in mining circles. Mackey died in 1952 aged 78.

My Nana was a health expert...

“Use it or lose it”
she used to say.

And according to the health experts she was right.
Be physically active, she said.

Take a walk, ride a bike, dance a little, dig the garden. Keep mentally active, she said. Do a puzzle, read a book, play cards, knit a scarf. Keep socially active, she said. Say hello to your neighbours. Have a chat down the shops.

Health experts now tell us that keeping physically, mentally, socially and spiritually active is how we keep mentally healthy.

Oil in the Yilgarn 1923

(See "They wished upon a star" by P.T. McMahon)

There was wild excitement and speculation in Southern Cross in October 1923 when two very presentable and charming men – Messrs Rothkehl and Thompson – arrived in the town and announced the discovery of oil N.E. of Southern Cross about 20 miles from Yellowdine. Inspections of the site by representatives of the Mines Department, the Yilgarn Road Board and other prominent persons were made and money was being invested in the Lake Eva Oil Co.

When Mines Dept. put down first test bore both prospectors were present but departed before its completion.

Analysis of oil taken from the bore proved it contained kerosene, vaseline and lubricating oil and some soap.

It was revealed that a large square tank had been buried some distance from the camp and into this the mixture of products had been syphoned.

Thompson was sent to gaol for 18 months, other penalties unknown.

Note: Feb 1977 Syd Coward reported that rumours of the square tank were still to be found about 13 miles past the Duladgin lone grave.
